

UCLA Department of Asian American Studies

Graduate Concentration

Please submit this completed application form, along with your CV, to Gregory Pancho, Student Affairs Officer, at grpancho@asianam.ucla.edu

The UCLA Department of Asian American Studies offers a Graduate Concentration in Asian American Studies to allow graduate students enrolled in UCLA departments, programs, and professional schools to acquire expertise and a credential in Asian American Studies. In conjunction with another graduate program, students take four courses, which includes an individual studies course in which students must complete an Asian American Studies-related major research paper. Courses taken for the Asian American Studies Graduate Concentration are in addition to requirements of students' primary program and should be completed before advancing to candidacy.

Upon completion of the requirements, the Department of Asian American Studies will furnish graduate concentrators with a letter attesting to their basic competency in graduate work in Asian American Studies.

Required Course Work

To complete the Graduate Concentration, students must complete and take for a letter grade a total of four courses offered by the Department of Asian American Studies:

- Asian American Studies (ASIA AM) 200A, 200B, or 200C. Limit 1 course for credit from this category.
- ASIA AM undergraduate upper division course (101-199). Limit 1 course for credit from this category.
- ASIA AM 203, M215, M239, M260, M261, M290Q, and 297A-Z; EDUC 253G. No limit from this category.
- ASIA AM 596, Individual Study. Limit 1 course for credit from this category.
